Raising our voices to support the community

OVER 25,000 INDIVIDUALS. EVERY MPI CHAPTER. DOZENS of pan-industry research grants. US$14.4 million distributed. AND you!

That’s what 40 years of volunteer work has yielded.

The MPI Foundation’s purpose has mirrored the needs of your global community to provide financial support to individuals, chapters and industry associations to raise the bar on education, professionalism, industry research and service.

Simply, no other industry association has distributed as much back to individual industry professionals.

Throughout this year, we’ve reached out to our Community of Honorees, past international board and trustee chairs, council members, chapter leaders and every MPI member who has ever benefitted from MPIF distributions.

We continue to collect their stories and hope they will pay it forward to make this industry great. Through the generosity of countless partners, dozens of fundraising events and donations large and small, MPIF has helped sustain the community that make MPIF’s 40th anniversary even more celebratory.

Our association and our industry’s future look very bright. As we reflect on our cumulative efforts, the community need is still evident. Every DAY, we are actively seeking funds to continue to support diverse and strategic efforts.

As we wrap 2024, let’s celebrate that legacy and raise our voices to support a community dedicated to unleashing professional potential through innovation and engagement.

Special thanks to those partners who supported the creation of this booklet and to those who make giving to MPIF an annual rite.

One person. One chapter. One community. One industry. Celebrate the power of good today and always!

Gratefully,

Kevin Kirby
 Executive Director | MPI Foundation

INDUSTRY LEGACY

The MPI Foundation's recent efforts to give back have been felt by meeting professionals around the world, whether impacted by COVID-19 closures or the wildfires in Hawaii. One particularly notable effort involved scholarships for students from Ukraine to attend MPI's World Education Congress in San Francisco (pictured).

CELEBRATING THE

POWER

How the MPI Foundation has made the professionals in the meeting and event community the very best version of ourselves for 40 years.

“THE RECENT FUNDRAISING CAMPAIGN to support Ukrainian students through the MPI Poland Chapter is a perfect example of the important work conducted by the MPI Foundation,” recounts Antonio Ducceschi, 2024 vice chair of finance for the MPIF Global Board of Trustees.

“This initiative was impactful as it provided crucial financial support to ensure the continuity of education for Ukrainian students affected by the war,” he says. “Without this funding, many of these students would have faced significant disruptions in their studies. This effort not only highlighted the foundation’s commitment to education but also demonstrated our ability to respond swiftly and effectively to global crises, ensuring that students could continue their academic pursuits.”

Meeting industry support like this has been at the heart of the MPI Foundation since its creation in 1984. The non-profit organization, spearheaded by the all-volunteer Global Board of Trustees, is the leading meeting and event industry foundation devoted to funding grants, scholarships and pan-industry research for the people who need it most.

“Making our industry and community the best version of ourselves is what really drives us,” says Kevin Kirby, executive director of the MPI Foundation. “In 2023 alone, the MPIF distributed 251 grants and scholarships. Over the past 40 years, the MPIF has acted on behalf of our members, chapters and industry, distributing over $14.4 million across our global community.”

Kirby says that beyond raising funds through donations from individuals, chapters and organizations, MPIF leaders have sought to make the connection to the meetings community more profound at the 40-year mark through a “Celebrate the power of good!” theme.

“Our success is measured by ensuring we maximize our grants and scholarships distribution,” he says. “While how much we raise is important, it’s equally as important to know that through 40 years, we have helped over 25,000 individuals.”

ER OF GOOD

THERE'S NEVER A WRONG TIME TO DO THE RIGHT THING

The MPI Foundation is continually seeking to expand and enhance the scope and breadth of its service to MPI members. Brad Dean, a current member of the Global Board of Trustees, says one initiative that stands out to him occurred early on during the pandemic, when the meeting industry was severely impacted by travel restrictions and public health concerns.

"Everyone was very concerned about the future of in-person meetings, and some were even suggesting that in-person meetings might never return to the levels we had become accustomed to," he says. "The MPI staff, Global Board of Trustees and International Board of Directors were all unified in our belief that not only would meetings return, but their importance would soar post-pandemic as we would value in-person meetings even more (thankfully, we were right). After much discussion and thoughtful analysis, we unanimously voted to invest as much of our MPIF funds, including reserves, as was possible to keep professional planners engaged and educated throughout the crisis."

Other recent initiatives by the MPIF include providing support to the community in Hawaii impacted by the tragic wildfires in 2023 and providing a grant to develop an anti-human trafficking education program for use at all MPI chapters to support efforts to stop the horrors of human trafficking.

A PART OF SOMETHING BIGGER

MPI Foundation contributions to the industry run the gamut, including underwriting the CMM program, research/studies (including IACC's "Meeting Room of the Future" and an analysis of the comprehensive economic impact of the meeting industry), grants that help MPI chapters provide important education (such as the MPI Connecticut River Valley Chapter's nighttime dinner and education combo session with a medical meetings focus) and a grant supporting HelmsBriscoe's HB Cares Autism Work Experience Project.

An MPIF grant helped the MPI Denmark Chapter host a one-day training course using the Event Design Canvas methodology.

Former chapter president Anne Dalgaard says the grant made it possible for the chapter to offer members a certificate course on top of the "ordinary" seminars—a more substantial educational offering than was previously available.

"The course went really well—it was beneficial to the attendees, interactive and highly educational. The course received a satisfaction score of 4.8 on a five-point scale," she says. "An educational offer like this makes it possible for us to show our members that there is more to MPI than our local seminars—that we are part of something bigger!"

Countless individuals have benefitted from MPIF scholarships that enabled them to become MPI members or attend important events such as the World Education Congress (WEC) and European Meetings & Events Conference (EMEC).

"My participation in the MPI Chicago Area Chapter literally would not have been possible were it not for this scholarship opportunity," says Gabriel Alaniz. "The MPIF has helped me gain confidence in my journey towards establishing myself as a meeting planner in the Chicago area. Thanks to this scholarship opportunity, I have been able to foster meaningful relationships with other

"There are so many highlights from my involvement with the MPI Foundation, but I have most pride in the fact that the funds that we raise fund grants, scholarships and pan-industry research for the people who need it most within the meeting and event industry. The dollars they receive allow them to grow their career and move the industry forward."

The second was a mind shift that challenged the chapters to hold a local fundraiser within their community—proceeds would come to the foundation and then a large percent of that would be given back to the contributing chapter for education, training, etc. We called it ‘5K can go a long way!’ We encouraged 5K races and asked each chapter to shoot for a $5,000 donation to the foundation.”

SECURING FUTURE SUCCESS

Although we’re celebrating the 40th anniversary of the MPI Foundation by taking a look back, it’s important to note that the MPIF is not going anywhere. To help ensure its ongoing legacy, an endowment was established during the tenure of Jim Russell, 2016-2018 chair of the MPI Foundation Global Board of Trustees.

“This endowment is intended to eventually provide enough returns to support the operating costs of the MPI Foundation,” Russell says. “That way, we achieve closer to a dollar-for-dollar contribution to benefit ratio. Every dollar given to the foundation goes back out to the community vs. supporting operating costs.”

Russell says he’s been blessed to have so many friends in the industry that also serve the community.

“I’ve found that there are so many in our industry that you simply cannot out-give! Not just in dollars, of course, but with inspiration, servanthood and mentorship,” he says. “I’d love to challenge everyone to get involved in the MPI Foundation...I guarantee you will get more than you expect. You will serve alongside like-minded industry leaders and make an impact on this amazing community we are privileged to be a part of.”

Looking ahead, Ducceschi believes the MPIF will play a crucial role in shaping the future of the meeting industry by investing in the younger generations.

“The foundation’s initiatives will be pivotal in ensuring that young people are introduced to and remain engaged in our fantastic industry, thus securing its future growth and success,” he says.

OF THE YEAR
THAT'S GIVEN

DECADES.

Why longtime supporter Caesars Entertainment believes in the mission of the MPI Foundation—and the impact of its RENDEZVOUS networking event.

THE MPI FOUNDATION'S RENDEZVOUS PARTIES are the industry's premier networking events for meeting and event professionals. The MPIF partners with diverse brands and organizations to produce these parties at events in North America and Europe (including MPI's WEC and EMEC), with proceeds benefitting the MPI Foundation. One particularly passionate MPIF supporter is the team at Caesars Entertainment, a longtime sponsor of RENDEZVOUS at IMEX America.

"We have been a supporter of the MPI Foundation for years and Brian Crumby, our director of strategic accounts, is on the Global Board of Trustees," says Kelly Gleeson Smith, vice president of sales for Caesars Entertainment. "The MPI Foundation's mission is to fuel the growth and advancement of MPI members by providing scholarships, educational grants and research. This aligns with Caesars Entertainment's values."

Gleeson Smith says Caesars Entertainment believes strongly in developing its people and helping them grow, and that is also one of the most important aspects of her role.

"There is nothing more valuable than helping others achieve their dreams," she says. "As an industry, we need to attract talent to and grow the awareness of the value of meetings and events. The meeting industry is bigger than fashion and bigger than the automobile industry, yet so many still don't realize it's an industry. And what an incredible industry it is! 'When we meet, we change the world' is MPI's motto. Now that is impactful."

Caesars Entertainment has proudly sponsored RENDEZVOUS for more than a decade.

"This event has been held at Drai's Day & Night Club at the Cromwell Hotel for as long as I can remember," Gleeson Smith says. "Over 2,000 meeting professionals attend, and numerous sponsored areas provide everyone in the industry with a dedicated space to gather. The venue boasts expansive indoor and outdoor areas with stunning views of the Strip. Outside, there's ample room for mingling, and inside there's an amazing, large dance floor where attendees can let loose and enjoy themselves. And let's not forget our local celebrity DJ Warren Peace. It's always a fun and unforgettable night!"

Hosting RENDEZVOUS during IMEX is a highlight that many people look forward to, according to Reina Herschdorfer, director of marketing, national meetings & events for Caesars Entertainment.

"It's growing every year and selling out, and we are proud to play a role in its success—raising almost $400,000 for the foundation is certainly something to be proud of," she says. "Besides hosting our top clients and welcoming the industry into our home, the branding opportunities at Drai's are unsurpassed and the experience is first class."

'The MPI Foundation is the heart of MPI'

Former leaders discuss the impact and legacy of the foundation.

Why is the foundation's work so important to the ongoing strength of the meeting industry?

The work of the MPI Foundation is crucial because it directly addresses the education needs of our members and chapters. It allows the MPI Foundation to bring resources through targeted programs, scholarships and other important initiatives. Beyond the education aspect, the MPI Foundation uplifts members, inspires confidence and, I believe, drives meaningful change in the meeting industry.

Katie Callahan-Giobbi

Since almost 40% of the workers in our industry (due to the pandemic) are new and inexperienced with what it takes to produce business events, the MPI Foundation helps to strengthen our industry by providing excellent resources, scholarships and other support.

David DuBois

The MPI Foundation is the HEART of MPI. Through scholarships, research and strategic support, the MPI Foundation doesn't just respond to today's needs—it builds the foundation for tomorrow's growth. Their work empowers professionals at every level to elevate the experiences they create, ensuring the meeting and event industry's enduring strength.

Tony Fundaro

Can you tell us about an important foundation initiative undertaken during your leadership tenure?

I had the pleasure of leading two major fundraising campaigns that helped to underwrite very member valuable programs: the Women's Leadership Initiative and the Multicultural Initiative. Many elements of those programs continue to exist today and continue to be enhanced.

David DuBois

One of the key initiatives launched during my tenure was the economic impact studies, beginning in Canada and expanding to the U.S., Great Britain and many other countries. Funded and led by the MPI Foundation, these studies were particularly meaningful because they highlighted the meeting and event industry as a powerful economic engine. By quantifying our industry's value, we equipped professionals and policymakers alike with essential insights to drive growth and advocate for the industry's role in the global economy.

Tony Fundaro

One of the most exciting and impactful initiatives our board undertook was transforming the MPI Foundation's governance structure to support our international growth. As part of that plan, we held our first board meeting in Dubai, a bold and enterprising move to demonstrate how the MPI Foundation's work supports the global meetings and events community.

Katie Callahan-Giobbi

Can you share a foundation-related story that inspired you?

The most impactful stories I remember are those where an MPI Foundation scholarship opened doors that transformed a member's career. With access to training and mentorship that would have otherwise been out of reach, these professionals gained the tools to thrive and lead. This is the heart of the foundation's work—seeing firsthand how one opportunity can change a life and, in turn, uplift the entire industry.

Tony Fundaro

Throughout my tenure as EVP of the MPI Foundation, I was continually impressed with the passion of our board, donors and members and the level of support we were able to secure. The impact the MPI Foundation made then, and still makes today, is nothing short of inspiring.

‘The freedom to focus’

A recent recipient of two MPI Foundation scholarships on how it helped her achieve important goals.

GRACE SCHULER, A DREXEL UNIVERSITY CLASS of 2024 graduate, says her World Education Congress and KPMG Emerging Professionals scholarships, courtesy of the MPI Foundation, gave her the freedom to focus more on learning and less on funding her education.

“I so appreciated that gift of time,” she says. “I cannot tell you how helpful the Emerging Professionals scholarship and attendance at the conference were to me during my five-year hospitality management studies. I was truly grateful not only for financial reasons, but because it was an honor to be considered worthy.”

Schuler says both scholarships enabled her to meet many great people and have experiences that wouldn’t otherwise have been possible.

“For example, in my senior year, I was able to take on an internship with the event planning team at The Ritz-Carlton in St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, to learn about resort management,” she says. “It was also possible for me to volunteer my time to serve as the president of the Drexel Hospitality Society. These are things I could not have considered doing without scholarship support.”

As she begins her career in event planning, Schuler hopes to continue to develop events that “resolve hard issues and find solutions for those in need.”

“I believe with this career I can make a difference that can improve lives,” she says. “Your generosity has inspired me to give back to the community. I hope one day I will be able to help other students achieve their goals.”

Creating cutting-edge research

At the annual Thought Leaders Summit, the MPI Foundation convenes the profession's best to look at events in new ways—resulting in insights that move your industry forward.

THE MPI FOUNDATION CONVENES THE MEETING and event industry's top leaders for its annual Thought Leaders Summit to discuss, ideate and problem-solve critical challenges such as AI, safety, diversity and inclusion and designing the future of work.

Julie Holtgrave, CMP, deputy director of operations & education initiatives for the American College of Lifestyle Medicine, has attended several Thought Leaders Summits and calls the experience “exceptional.”

“Each one is very different—the content is different, the dynamic of the attendees is different,” she says. “The level of the conversations and the challenges that I encounter as a meeting professional bring a context to what I do and help me to solve problems. You experience second-to-none hospitality, and participating is definitely a highlight of my year.”

Recent host cities have included Buffalo, N.Y., and Mobile, Ala. The 2024 Thought Leaders Summit in Indianapolis featured two education tracks: food waste prevention and neuroinclusion.

“The education sessions at the Thought Leaders Summit are challenging,” Holtgrave says. “They challenge you to think outside the box.

The other attendees challenge you to think in ways that you may not have thought of before, using a different lens and a different filter to think about how your events come together and how it might impact your attendees. It's very different than sitting at the World Education Congress and hearing different operational and facilitation concepts for your events. This goes a little deeper, and it definitely is something that applies more to the senior-level planner.”

The MPI Foundation also funds important industry research, such as economic impact studies that demonstrate the true value of the meeting industry in different countries/regions. White papers based on Thought Leaders Summit education are one of the important research-focused projects that benefit from MPI Foundation support.

The following is an excerpt from “Neuroinclusion Next: Meeting and Event Design,” one of the white papers based on the 2024 Thought Leaders Summit in Indianapolis, where attendees earned the Event Welfare Champion: Neurodiversity & Experience Design certificate, developed by Google's The Neu Project & EventWell.

People who are neurodivergent make up 20% of the global population, according to The Neu Project. The term “neurodivergent” refers to “neurologically divergent from typical” and includes developmental, acquired and mental health.

These numbers have profound implications for meeting and event planners. Not only do neurodivergent people tend to find it harder to participate in events due to sensory overload, crowds, noise and lighting, among other factors, they are also less likely to go altogether because of the stress they anticipate it will cause them.

Giving back helps push people forward

MPI Foundation scholarships and grants aid in the success of the individuals and MPI chapters that receive them, especially in times of great need.

"I'm honored and grateful to have been selected as a recipient of an MPI Foundation scholarship. As a new member, this scholarship will allow me to pursue more education and create quality relationships in the event management space. This will enhance my contribution to our sales team and customers across the board. Thank you again for your support and I look forward to continual growth as a professional and contributing to the mission of MPI."

"MPI's motto, 'When we meet, we change the world,' is truly meaningful. I've experienced it firsthand and seen how powerful connections can transform not just careers but lives.

As one of the Ukrainian students who received the scholarship from MPI, I can say it provided me with the motivation and resources I needed to dive into the industry. It made a significant difference in my life, allowing me to continue my studies and kick-start my career in this amazing field.

"Since then, I've been super excited to keep learning, growing and finding new ways to connect with amazing people in this field. I'm also really proud to now be a

“Thanks to the MPI Foundation’s Anti-Human Trafficking Chapter Education Grant, the MPI Carolinas Chapter continues its efforts to raise awareness, spark action and equip members with information about human trafficking. The grant supported an anti-human trafficking education session at our August chapter meeting, which empowered our members with essential knowledge to recognize the indicators of human trafficking, challenge harmful myths and take meaningful steps toward prevention. Our chapter is committed to offering anti-human trafficking education sessions annually, and we appreciate the foundation’s support in this initiative.”

“Through the assistance of the foundation, I was able to continue my MPI membership during COVID while our resort was closed for a year. I was so grateful to be able to have the support from my MPI family during this time as it allowed me the opportunity to network and prospect with other members and take advantage of all the benefits that come with the membership.”
Sherrie Holl
MPI Oregon Chapter

“I am very grateful to have received the scholarship for membership to MPI. The cost savings has been a blessing, as I have returned to graduate school to obtain a master’s degree. The degree will qualify me to return to the university classroom to teach the next generation of meeting and event planning professionals.”
Lee-Ann Choy

“I am deeply grateful for the incredible support I received for my annual membership fee. The MPI Foundation stepped in at just the right moment! After facing back-to-back hurricanes in St. Petersburg, Fla., I incurred significant expenses evacuating my family twice, followed by thousands of dollars in unexpected vehicle repairs. This generous support provided much-needed relief during a challenging time.”

“Support from the MPI Foundation has been invaluable in connecting me with a community of like-minded professionals and helping shape my career. It’s equipped me with leadership skills that I’ve applied as a board member for the MPI Virginia Chapter, allowing me to give back to the industry while growing personally and professionally.”

leadership tenure. ¶ “A highlight was when we had success, it was shared by all,” he says. “My experience enabled me to effectively articulate the goals and mission of the foundation and how it supports MPI to the donor community.” ¶ One of the important MPIF initiatives undertaken during Powell’s leadership tenure was funding the modernization of the MP Resource Center, which had been established years before in hard copy. ¶ “The MPI Resource Center was a repository of books, periodicals, research/analysis reports and textbooks relevant to the industry,” he says.

Stephen D. Powell, the second chair of the MPI Foundation Global Board of Trustees (1991), says he learned and refined his ability to communicate with and motivate other leaders toward a common goal during his MPIF
